

Fiscal Year 2021 Report to Congress (July 2020–June 2021)

The CDC Foundation experienced a successful year of significant program accomplishments during the period of July 2020–June 2021, which included response to the COVID-19 pandemic that continued beyond the end of the fiscal year.

The CDC Foundation is an independent nonprofit and the sole entity created by Congress to mobilize philanthropic and private-sector resources to support the critical health protection work of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). The CDC Foundation is focused on one priority—helping CDC improve the health and lives of people on a population basis. Since 1995, the CDC Foundation has launched more than 1,200 programs and raised approximately $1.6 billion. The CDC Foundation managed approximately 220 programs in the United States and in 165 countries last year.

The CDC Foundation had its most impactful fundraising and programmatic year on record during the period of July 1, 2020–June 30, 2021 (FY 2021) in its efforts to extend CDC’s lifesaving work, including programmatic support to expand the COVID-19 response. Below are program highlights, financial highlights and a listing of contributors. Additional financial information, including the Foundation’s audited financial statements and its annual tax information returns (Form 990) as well as more information on the Foundation’s programs and partners, is available on the Foundation’s website at www.cdcfoundation.org.

The CDC Foundation is pleased to report that, for the fourteenth year in a row, the Foundation in FY2021 received a 4-star rating from Charity Navigator, the nation’s largest and most utilized evaluator of charities. Only one percent of charities rated have received 14 consecutive 4-star evaluations.

Program Highlights

Responding to COVID-19: During this fiscal year, the CDC Foundation mobilized $317 million in funding and in-kind contributions from a wide variety of donors for COVID-19 emergency response efforts. The CDC Foundation focused its efforts on several priority areas: addressing communications needs, updating data and technology infrastructure, fortifying the global response, supporting disproportionately-impacted communities, increasing lab capacity and bolstering research, and strengthening and supplying local response efforts. In FY2021, the CDC Foundation supported 177 COVID-19 projects, 89 of which were focused on health equity. In one example, these projects provided more than 139,900 care kits to schools, jails, first responders and the homeless. As first responders, hospitals and public health agencies across the country scrambled to find personal protective equipment to keep themselves and the public safe, the CDC Foundation teamed up with donors in FY2021 to provide more than 922,000 pieces of PPE, bringing to more than 8 million the total number of PPE provided in FY2020 and FY2021. Response work is continuing in FY2022 as the CDC Foundation supports the critical response efforts needed to combat the evolving nature of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Tackling COVID-19 Misinformation: Coordination and amplification of public health messaging is paramount to our ability to end the COVID-19 pandemic. The CDC Foundation plays a critical role in tackling COVID-19 misinformation and providing up-to-date health messaging through its partnership with the de Beaumont Foundation and the Trust for America's Health on the Public Health Communications Collaborative. These streamlined and consistent communications increase Americans' confidence in guidance from CDC and state and local public health officials. And for businesses making important decisions about staff safety and return to work protocols, the Health Action Alliance, an initiative begun by the CDC Foundation in partnership with the Ad Council, Business Roundtable, the de Beaumont Foundation and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, has developed communications tools and resources for businesses and employers to guide the development of COVID-19 vaccination policies and programs. Seventy one percent of Americans trust their employer to make the right decision about when it is safe to return to the office. Equipping employers with this guidance strengthens vaccine acceptance, advances health equity and rebuilds trust in public health systems.

Keeping the Homeless Safe and Healthy: Handwashing remains a key mitigation strategy to prevent the spread of COVID-19, but access to clean water, effective handwashing supplies and restrooms can be challenging for people experiencing homelessness. To address this need, the CDC Foundation in partnership with the Clean the World Foundation, and with financial support from Truist and technical assistance from CDC, launched an initiative to set up handwashing and portable restroom stations for individuals experiencing homelessness. The stations were in Southern Nevada, Central Florida and Puerto Rico. The project is estimated to have served at least 8,000 unique individuals across the geographic areas. In addition to traditional service organizations like shelters and food pantries that provide resources for people experiencing homelessness, other business owners joined the effort and offered their properties to serve as site locations, including law offices, insurance agencies and construction sites.

Supporting Community-based Organizations: As part of ongoing efforts with communities most impacted by COVID-19 and to address root causes of health inequity, the CDC Foundation began efforts in FY2021 to support in FY2022 more than 150 community-based organizations (CBO) across the United States with a commitment of $30 million. The funds are being used to support CBOs as they promote COVID-19 vaccination and reduce the burden of the virus, engage with local partners, including their state and local health departments, address vaccine-related concerns, develop innovative and culturally appropriate communications strategies, and promote timely COVID-19 and seasonal influenza vaccine. The CBOs receiving funding, located in 38 states and the District of Columbia, have deep roots in local communities where their work includes engaging in neighborhood-level outreach, managing local communication campaigns and hosting community events that can be used as vehicles for disseminating relevant, accurate and culturally responsive information on COVID-19. By mobilizing federal funds as well as resources from private donors and philanthropic partners, the CDC Foundation's ongoing investments aim to remove barriers, advance health equity and ensure that all communities have the resources and information they need for continued health and wellbeing. Through these collective and coordinated efforts, the important work of CBOs can be sustained and extended beyond the COVID-19 response.

Supporting Mental Health During the Pandemic: As COVID-19 continues to impact daily life, the accompanying stress, isolation and uncertainty many face has raised concerns about the mental health impacts of the pandemic. To help people navigate the mental health challenges of the pandemic, the CDC Foundation supported the How Right Now/Que Hacer Ahora campaign. Developed by NORC at the University of Chicago in partnership with CDC, How Right Now connects communities with mental health resources to help those dealing with stress and worry. From its launch, the How Right Now campaign was designed to be flexible and responsive to the changing face of the pandemic. The How Right Now website engages users from wide-ranging age, social and economic groups with links to content from resources as diverse as the American Red Cross, the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, the National Domestic Violence Hotline and the American Association of Retired Persons. The success of this campaign has paved the way for a new phase of the campaign to continue into 2022 targeted specifically toward communities of color and groups that have historically been hardest hit by social inequities. Initial support to launch this effort was provided through the CDC Foundation's Emergency Response Fund as well as support from other donors.

Filling Critical Public Health Gaps with Staffing: From the outset, the COVID-19 pandemic has strained the nation's health care and public health systems. State, territorial, tribal and local health departments often found themselves overwhelmed. The threat posed by COVID-19 sparked a massive national response, and as part of that response, the CDC Foundation received a grant from CDC to hire staff to bolster health departments in all 50 states, including territories, big cities and tribal jurisdictions. Recruiters filled critical positions, from contact tracers and case investigators to lab techs, data scientists and epidemiologists. This work has continued with CDC and public health departments, providing jurisdictions with the opportunity to hire staff in different job categories to adapt to the shifting nature of the COVID-19 pandemic, including immunization staff, data analysts, public health nurses and school support staff. These staff members have been able to fill critical gaps when help was most needed. In total, the CDC Foundation under this grant hired more than 770 staff during fiscal years 2020 and 2021 in support of health departments across the nation.

Fighting the Opioid Epidemic: Opioids remain the main driver of drug overdose deaths in the United States. Since the start of the opioid epidemic in 1999, one million Americans have lost their lives to opioid overdose, with synthetic opioids like fentanyl now responsible for more opioid-related deaths than either prescription drugs or heroin. Addressing the crisis requires strong and collaborative partnerships within communities, particularly between the public health and public safety sectors. With support from Bloomberg Philanthropies, CDC and the CDC Foundation is developing the Public Health and Safety Team (PHAST) Toolkit to help states and local jurisdictions prevent overdose deaths by supporting data sharing and coordinated overdose prevention between public health and public safety agencies. While public safety agencies hold real-time data on overdoses, arrests and emerging drug threats, public health agencies bring a data-driven approach to investigating and responding to public health crises. Because neither sector can reduce opioid-related deaths independently, the PHAST Toolkit helps to bridge knowledge, data and service gaps by creating opportunities for collaboration, coordination and shared accountability. The PHAST Toolkit was piloted by the CDC Foundation in three jurisdictions, and an updated final version of the toolkit and an associated website with e-learning modules will be released in 2022.

Saving Lives with Meningitis Screening: Cryptococcal meningitis is one of the leading causes of death among people living with HIV, with most of the estimated 220,000 new cases and 181,000 deaths every year occurring among this population. The cryptococcus fungus that causes cryptococcal meningitis is present worldwide and has little to no effect on healthy individuals. However, for people with severely weakened immune systems like those with advanced HIV disease, the mortality rate is extremely high. Early detection and anti-fungal treatment can dramatically reduce mortality, yet countries with the highest number of cases often lack the infrastructure to implement regular screenings or provide the necessary treatments. Since 2017, and with funding by Pfizer Inc., the CDC Foundation has worked to support programs in 13 African countries to preemptively treat patients and avoid potential infection or death. The CDC Foundation has joined seven other public health organizations in developing a strategic framework for ending deaths from cryptococcal meningitis as early as 2030.

Fighting Heart Disease with Communication: Million Hearts® is a national initiative co-led by CDC and the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services to prevent 1 million heart attacks, strokes and cardiovascular events. Its work with the CDC Foundation aims to provide health communication campaigns that help adults in the United States understand their personal risk for heart disease and stroke, believe in their power to change it and take steps to protect their heart health. To further highlight the importance of prioritizing heart health, the CDC Foundation is proud to convene the Alliance for the Million Hearts® Campaigns, which in 2021 launched the first in a series of national, prevention-focused communication campaigns. The “Start Small. Live Big.” campaign encourages people, especially adults aged 55–64 years, to get back on track with small steps so they can get back to living big. The campaign featured public service announcements, social media ads, influencer promotions and employee communications across the CDC Foundation, CDC and partner channels. This initiative is supported by the Bayer Corporation and Amgen, Inc.

Financial Information

For the year ending June 30, 2021, total grants and contributions received by the CDC Foundation were $463.33 million and consisted of: $61.52 million from foundations; $16.13 million from other organizations and individuals; $40.73 million from corporations; and $344.95 million in direct federal grants. The majority of these contributions were restricted to the following program focus areas: $31.35 million to infectious disease; $345.74 million to emergency preparedness and response; $16.25 million to global health; $19.89 million to chronic disease and birth defects; $25.47 million for public health leadership; $16.84 million for injury and violence; and $7.79 million to other areas.

The Foundation also received federal funding of $1.25 million for the year ending June 30, 2021, to help defray administrative costs to the Foundation. This funding was primarily used to fund the costs of the staff who were responsible for building the partnerships that generated $463.33 million in support of expanded programming for CDC.

Of the $463.33 million of grants and contributions received in Fiscal Year 2021, $227.80 million represents conditional cost reimbursement grants that will be recognized as contribution revenue in future periods. As of June 30, 2021, the Foundation had total assets of $289.6 million; total liabilities of $29.9 million; and total net assets of $259.7 million. Eighty-six percent of these assets were restricted by the donors to fund specific projects for CDC. For the year ending June 30, 2021, the Foundation generated total contributions and other revenues for financial reporting purposes of $212.6 million and incurred total program costs and other expenses of $208.0 million. These program costs and other expenses consisted of $41.6 million in project grants; $152.7 million in other program costs; $10.8 million for management and general expenses; and $2.9 million in fundraising costs.
